

CONTRIBUTORS

Wim Laven, Ph.D, instructor of peace studies, political science, and conflict resolution, focuses his research on forgiveness and reconciliation, which he relates to his wide range of work and research experiences. His experience in the field spans 4 continents and includes many processes from mediating disputes in small claims court, to interventions during complex humanitarian disasters. He is on the executive boards of the International Peace Research Association and the Peace and Justice Studies Association, and is the Editor in Chief of the Peace Chronicle.

Gabriel Ertsgaard is the Interviews Editor for The Peace Chronicle. He earned his Doctor of Letters from Drew University with a dissertation on environmental themes in a medieval legend. He previously taught university English courses in the United States and China. His criticism, poetry, and fairy tales have appeared in various print and digital publications.

Thomas Hodges, Ph.D. is a postdoctoral fellow at the Center for the Advancement of Military and Emergency Services Research at Kennesaw State University. His research focuses on the role that moral injury and military identity play in the reintegration of military veterans. In addition to research, he is a conflict resolution trainer and instructor. He holds a Ph.D. in International Conflict Management from the School of Conflict Management, Peacebuilding and Development at Kennesaw State University.

Carolyn Bennett resides in Toronto with her husband and two teenage children. After many years working in specialized childcare she now focuses on her passion in volunteer work.

Caleb Robinson is a behavioral therapist living in Cincinnati, Ohio. They graduated from Ball State University in 2015 with a degree in Psychology, as well as minors in History and Creative Writing. While attending they were published in Ball State's literary journal, The Broken Plate. They returned to Ball State University to receive a Masters degree in Cognitive and Social Processes in 2019, focusing primarily on cognitive neuroscience. Caleb previously wrote the piece A Virtual Hand: Reaching out Amidst the COVID-19 Pandemic in the Fall 2021 issue of the Peace Chronicle. When they aren't working they are often writing sketch comedy or performing improv at the theater Improv Cincinnati as their Assistant Sketch Director.

---

CONTRIBUTORS

Emma Lovejoy is an author, historian, and the Production Manager of the Peace Chronicle. They are currently at UMASS Boston, where they are writing their M.A. thesis on circus and sideshow history. They strive to see the magic in ordinary things, and love uncovering untold and under-appreciated stories. In addition to their academic work, Emma is a fiction writer, with a new short story appearing in The House Built Between the Branches, an anthology from Nightshade Publishing, in October 2024.

Madison Turunen is a current Master's Candidate at the University of San Diego Kroc School of Peace Studies. Madison received her undergraduate degree at Pace University as a double major in Peace and Justice Studies and History, with minors in Women and Gender Studies and Politics; she intends to continue her journey in higher education in pursuit of a PhD in Peace and Justice with the goal of teaching within the field at the undergraduate level. She is passionate about research and advocacy related to gender justice, human rights, and restorative practices. Madison has been a member of PJSA since 2023.

Michael Wilson-Becerril is an activist-scholar specialized in the political ecologies of violence, resistance, and justice, with a focus on Latin America. He is the author of Resisting Extractivism: Peruvian Gold, Everyday Violence, and the Politics of Attention (Vanderbilt University Press, 2021). His work has also appeared in The Washington Post, Al Jazeera, NACLA, ROAR Magazine, Truthout, Latino Rebels, and other venues. He is currently based in the Peace and Conflict Studies Department at Swarthmore College. Please reach out via <https://linktr.ee/mwilsonbecerril>.

---